Ranked 13th in "Consulting, Research, and Technology"

MHP once again among the best employers in Germany

- In the ranking by market research institute Statista and Stern magazine, MHP is among the top 200 employers in Germany
- MHP ranks 13th in the "Consulting, Research, and Technology" sector
- This marks the fifth consecutive year that the management and IT consultancy has been ranked among Germany's best employers

Ludwigsburg – The management and IT consultancy MHP will remain one of Germany's best employers in 2026. The Porsche AG company ranks 13th in the "Consulting, Research, and Technology" sector. According to current employee evaluations, MHP is also among the top third of employers across all industries, ranking as an attractive employer for the fifth time in a row in the joint study conducted by the market research institute Statista and the weekly magazine Stern.

Federico Magno, Group CEO at MHP, is delighted by the renewed award: "At MHP, outstanding results emerge when highly qualified teams work closely together and in partnership with our clients, exchange knowledge, and push innovations forward. We are equally committed to growing our talent, attracting the best people, and fostering an environment that allows them to unlock their full potential. The positive feedback from our employees motivates us to continue strengthening collaboration, a strong performance mindset, and shared responsibility."

For the study, Statista and Stern analyzed 650 companies from 24 industries, each with at least 500 employees. More than 20,000 employees took part in an anonymous online survey. They rated both their own employer and other companies in their industry. A total of over one million individual ratings were included in the analysis.
