Handelsblatt: The best management consultants of 2025

MHP receives award

- The management and IT consultancy MHP is listed among the "Best Management Consultants" in this year's Handelsblatt ranking
- The award was presented in the "Automotive Industry" and "Transport and Logistics" consulting fields
- For the ranking, the Handelsblatt Research Institute surveyed almost 16,000 management consultants

Ludwigsburg – The management and IT consultancy MHP has been named one of the leading consulting firms in Germany in the "Best Management Consultants of 2025" ranking by Handelsblatt. MHP was awarded for its work in the "Automotive Industry" and "Transport and Logistics" consulting fields.

Federico Magno, Group CEO at MHP: "Our strength lies in bridging entrepreneurial insight with deep technological expertise – the true integration of management and IT consulting has always been, and will remain, our sweet spot. The AI revolution reinforces what we have long known: discussing business-relevant questions without technological competence leads to no real progress, while focusing on technology without operational alignment results in limited impact. This insight informs everything we do – and is reflected in the trust our clients place in us and our position in the current ranking."

Ranking provides an overview of the effectiveness of the consulting sector

The starting point for the ranking was a study conducted by the Handelsblatt Research Institute (HRI): To evaluate the individual companies, it asked 15,900 people from around 350 consulting firms about the most notable consulting firms in their respective consulting fields.

As a result of the study, the HRI was able to present awards to 104 of the 350 companies in 30 categories, avoiding any distortion of competition by using a methodology that prevented people from rating their own companies or forming voting syndicates. The 104 award-winning consulting firms are not ranked in any particular order.
